What is your favourite thing to smell?

I love the clean fresh smell of a Frangipani flower especially when I am overseas because it reminds me of home a dreamy tropical vacation.

See?

The Seaside - I guess there is something about that blue that brightens up the soul and once again reminds me of being on a dam good Holiday. I also love its power, forever changing colour, light, form and movement.

Hear?

Ocean waves - Creates a sense of calmness, puts me in a meditative state and is a distraction from man made sounds.

Touch?

Sand on the feet - we wear shoes all day long so to step on to the beach and feel the direct connection between body and sand gives a feeling of freedom and unrestraint. In complete contrast one of my least favourite things is sand in my boardies ;)

Taste?

On my grave stone it will read "Jason Sullivan, a friend to all and lover of Meat Balls..." I think i was Italian in my past life and perhaps my mother deprived me of them so in this life i just can't get enough.
